

The Haute Couture Club of Chicago
Presents
Vintage “Pocketbook” Workshop
Sunday, February 12, 2017
10:00 a.m. – 4:00 p.m.
Taught by Tammy O’Connell

The Haute Couture Club of Chicago is pleased to host its very own Tammy O’Connell, designer and proprietor of Peacock Patterns for a full-day of purse making on Sunday, February 12, 2017.

Members will choose a purse frame or two and using their own fabrics create one or two unique “pocketbooks”. You will learn how to draft your own purse pattern or use one of Tammy’s patterns. There are several techniques that will be taught so that you can learn to use a variety of frames.

This workshop requires the use of your sewing machine. You will complete at least one adorable purse during this workshop with a strong possibility of a second.

Supplies to bring:

1/3 yd fashion fabric and lining for each purse and any desired embellishments (like beads, ribbons, lace, or a broach).

Loose beads, if desired, with appropriately sized hand needle that will go through the beads for the top of the frame to sew the bag to frame. (Seed beads are too small.)

Sewing machine, thread, marking tool, ruler (clear), scissors, and seam ripper.

Tammy will have available: Handout, drafting paper, drafting tools, interfacings, lace selection, protractor, iron, ironing board, sleeve roll, pencils, glue, rattail satin cording for handle and hardware if desired. NOTE: Chain to match your purse frame will be available for purchase at the workshop, if you desire.
